

1 REVIEW

1. The following infinitives are amō, amāre; moneō, monēre; regō, regere.
2. The letter before the re of the infinitive needs to be especially noticed.
3. The perfect stems are amō, amāv-; moneō, monu-; emō, ēm-; mittō, mīs-.
4. The personal endings of the perfect are -ī, -istī, -it, -imus, -istis, -ērunt, -ēre.
5. The personal endings of the perfect added to amō, love.

SINGULAR

1. amāvī
2. amāvistī
3. amāvit

PLURAL

1. amāvimus
2. amāvistis
3. amāvērunt, ēre

6. The third person singular can be translated as: he has loved, he loved, he did love.
7. The table of personal endings for the present, imperfect, and future.

PRESENT IMPERFECT FUTURE

SINGULAR

- |    |            |    |    |
|----|------------|----|----|
| 1. | -ō (or -m) | -m | -ō |
| 2. | -s         | -s | -s |
| 3. | -t         | -t | -t |

PLURAL

- |    |      |      |      |
|----|------|------|------|
| 1. | -mus | -mus | -mus |
| 2. | -tis | -tis | -tis |
| 3. | -nt  | -nt  | -nt  |

8. The tense-sign of the imperfect is -ba-.
9. The tense-sign of the future in the first and second conjugations is -bi-.
10. The future of emō, buy.

SINGULAR

1. emam
2. emēs
3. emet

PLURAL

1. emēmus
2. emētis
3. ement

2 EXERCISES

- I. 1) The tired stranger.
2) On the full moon.
3) With zeal (zealously).
4) Joyfully of this sick boy.
5) Whose golden sword?
6) Which temple of the gods?
7) Of these pleasing tales.
8) By this victory of ours.
9) Who has ploughed the field with a plough for a long time?
10) Why are you doubtful, good boy?
11) Why will you remain on the islands?
12) Marcus and Brutus have had black horses.
13) Marcus and Brutus have had black horses.
- II. 1) Advenās bene rēxistī.
2) Quī virōs aegrōs in templa mittunt?
3) Amīcōs nostrōs in oppida dūcēmus.
4) Arma māgnā cum cūrā emet.
5) Cūius cum aurō arma emit?

3 ICARUS

BROTHER AND LITTLE SISTER

B. Today my friend told a good story.

S. About what has your friend told to you?

B. About Icarus, the son of Daedalus, the most unlucky boy.

S. Where was Icarus living? In Britain?

B. Not at all; in Crete, the large and beautiful island. Daedalus fashioned wings for Icarus and they were fitted with wax. The wings were greatly pleasing to Icarus. Then Daedalus taught the boy to fly, but Icarus flew too high. The sun melted the wax and the wings fell off.

S. But what about Icarus?

B. Icarus also fell in the sea.

S. Alas, the most unlucky Icarus!